Hongrong, September 28th, 1886. Mar Francis only did justice to our feelings when, in his letter which appeared in yesterday's issue, he characterised our remarks_on his candidature for the vacant seat on the Legislative Council as "fair, reasonable, and not unkindly comment." We desire to be perfectly fair, and we would on no account set down aught in malice against the learned Queen's Counsellor. Our objections against his election have already been stated; the reasons for maintaining the superiority of Mr. CHATER'S claim to succeed Mr. Sassoon have likewise been set forth. How decisive that claim is the public well know, and Müller, of Bristol, will preach in Union Church even Mr. Francis himself remarks that he cannot flatter himself "that in the face of so deservedly popular a candidate as Mr. CHA-TER" he shall succeed, and we do not imagine that he will have cause to change his opinion. We should not have recurred Co.'s fine steamer Honam will make another to this topic had not Mr. Francis challenged excursion trip to Macao and back on Sunday next, his letter:-

There is only one other matter to which I feel inmay be very independent new but that I was not always so. Of course you do not allude to "indepenin mind and conduct. Now there you touch me on a sore point, for I pride myself on having been in all things and all times absolutely independent in thought and word. I have never to my knowledge shaped my opinions to suit any man or body of men, never held my tongue to please any man when I thought it right to speak, never spoke or wrote in support of any cause I did not in honour and conscience think right—and I have spoken and acted in support of what I thought right when it was my discrest in every sense to do otherwise. If you believe me, on any occasion, to amiss, and I think after what you said you ought in common justice to do so.

We must out with it then. The independence referred to was, as our correspondent infers, that of mind and conduct. Mr. ly determined opponent of the Govern. ment, as the champion of the public. Time was, some nine years ago, when Mr. FRANCIS was found, in company with two other barristers, arrayed with the then Governor against almost every member of the British and Foreign community. He may argue now, perhaps, as he did then, that he was right and the community were wrong, but will they believe it? We trow not, Mr. Francis may also argue that he was even then displaying the independence of character on which he prides himself, but the po-Cricket Ground, held on the 7th October. 1878-that self-interest as well as sympathy

Without pronouncing judgment on Mr. Francis's motives at that time, we are bound to ear that he laid himself open to suspicion in the mind of the public, a suspicion that was strengthened by-he was then Acting Police Ma-The Vade Mecum for every Resident in the gistrate—his aubsequent acceptance of the post of Acting Puisne Judge and later of. that of A.D.C. to His Excellency. Mr. Francis may urge that he was true to his patron, but the community may reply that if his views on public questions are still thoseof Sir John Pope Hennessy, he can never number of people sit to work upon sugar bags represent them. The cargo-boat grievance turns out to have been a case of much cry and little wool. most serious question, materially affecting granted and a committee appointed, so little lying. nterest is manifested in it by the section of the community most immediately affected that the whole affair is dropped and matters are apparently to be allowed to go on in the old way. This is to be regretted, for there is undoubtedly room for improvement. The question is whether licensed cargo boats can be compelled to work, and for a fixed tariff, or are to be allowed to decline employment, and, when they accept it, to dictate their own terms. On this question the law does not seem quite clear. During the Franco-Chinese troubles a conviction was obtained against some cargo boat people who had declined to take off cattle to when disengaged. Some doubt was afterwards expressed as to whether the conviction was correct. The matter could be at once solved by any firm subjected to illegal demands by cargo boat owners instituting the other. This was the course we suggested reply it was stated that no firm would do so us at the time ridiculous, and the collapse of the official inquiry goes to show that it was go such fear as this that deterred people from prosecuting, but simply that they did not think the matter worth fighting about. Since, however, there is some doubt about the law, and the provision rendering it an offence for cargo boats to refuse hire when more than sixty arches constructed, and the two disengaged is alleged to have become in- aisles completed. What remains of the brickwork operative without being repealed, a Bill lought to be introduced placing matter on a proper footing, not only with and give to the building a quite new appearance. regard to thi particular provision, but also incorporating such improvements in the existing regulations as may be shown to be necessary. > GUNPOWDER EXPLOSION AT SHANGHAI.

The Daily News says: -A little before 5 o'clock p.m. on the 24th September, a serious gunpowder explosion occurred on the premises of Messrs. H. M. Schultz & Co. in Szechuen Road. It appears that two coolies were engaged in cleaning out a godown and came across some cartridges. These being old samples they were told to throw stealing about 30 cents' worth of copper nails at them away, but the men thought they would open them, probably for the sale of their contents; so they placed the cartridges on the floor of a building at the back of the premises at about six feet from the door and then proceeded to open them. There were sixty cartridges in all, fifty-nine being small ones for a revolver, and the other one for a rifle. The two coolies having finished their work, squatted down on the floor and proceeded to open the cartridges, and poured the powder from the revolver cartridges on the floor in a small heap. They then took an iron nail or spike and attempted to open the rifle cartridge, and while they were so engaged, it exploded. The burning powder from this cartridge communicated with the pile on the noor, the result being that this also went off. The two coolies were dangerously hurt. One lost all the fingers of one hand, and two of the other—he was probably the man who was open. Ems tells a characteristic story of the German ing the big cartridge. He was also very badly Emperer. > THE PROGRESS OF THE NAGASAKI NEGOTIATIONS.

The Japan Mail writes as follows :- The natural impatience of the Japanese people at the protracted nature of the Nagasaki negotiations is made the subject of an article by the Nichi Nichi Shimbun. The Tokyo journal says that no doubt remains in the mind of the Japanese as to the culpability of the Chinese sailors, and that he foreign residents endorse this opinion. On the other side, however, various pretexts are advanced to combat the Japanese position, and it is consequently necessary, according to the Nichi Nichi that an enquiry should be made into the circumstances of the affair before opening proceedings in L. CAPTAIN.

On the 12th August a remarkable surgical peration was performed at the Massachusetts General Hospital by Dr. Maurice H. Richardson. of Boston. About a year ago John McCarthy swallowed a sot of artificial tooth. The passage of food to the stomach was all nost wholly prevented, the patient grewemaciated and week and it became evident that unless relief was had, he must soon die. Dr. Richardson made altransverse out in the left side of the abdomen, through which the man's stomach was drawn out and then cut open, when by the insertion of his arm to the elbow Dr. Richardson was able reach and remove the teeth. The internal opening was then closed with fine silk and the stomach replaced, the external cut being also closed with stitches. The whole operation was completed in forty-five minutes. The patient is doing well and his complete recovery is now, considered little less than certain.

An auecdote which throws some light upon an mirmatic side of the negro character was told in the course of the discussion which followed Dr. Ogle's monograph on spicide at the last meeting the Statistical Society. Many years ago a West India regiment stationed at Kingston was afflicted with a martinet colonel, whose severities led to an epidemic of spicide among the rank and file. In the full conviction that negroes when they die go to Africa, poor Quacko was wont to hang himself en grand lenue, his knapsack stuffed with all his belongings, as a sort of provision for a new life in fatherland. Strong measures became necessary. The colonel therefore paraded the men one Sunday morning, and addressed them as follows:-- "Men! You are hanging yourselves because you think that you are going back to the Gold Coast. Nothing of the sort. When you die, you go to a much warmer place; and, by Jove, the next man who hangs himself, I'll do the same; and I'll make it ten times hot. ter for him there than here!" The result was an immediate cessation of suicides.

The death is aunounced at Vienna of probably the most prolific composer in the world. His name was Adolf Müller, and during the eightyfour years of his life he is said to have written no less than 4.773 musical works of all sorts. In five years, from 1828, he wrote for the Theatre an der Wien no less than sixty short operas, Haiphong ... vaudevilles or paredies. Adolf Müller's real name was Schmid, and he was born Oct. 7, 1802, at Tolna in Hungary. He lost his parents when a child, but Rieger, the organist of St. James' Church, Brunn, gave him lessons, and at the mature age of eight he played a pianoforte concerto at the Redoute. He became an opera singer, but having studied composition under Joseph Blumenthalat Vienna, he wrote his first opera in 1825. From 1828 to 1847 he was conductor at the An der Wein, and after a short engagement at the Leopoldstadt Theater, he returned to the An der Wien. It is said he composed upwards of 600 pieces for this theatre, including comic operas, operettas, musical farces, and vandevilles. He also wrote more than a thousand songs, and an extraordinary amount of dance and smaller pieces. His most important composition was a Mass, but it is said to be a poor work. His son Adolf, horn in 1839, is also a theatre conductor and com-

Herr von Bismarck, who at that time had no other title and had earned no courtly decoration, looked him hard in the eye and said: "I am in the habit sometime of saving a man's life."

FRUIT AS AN ARTICLE OF FOOD.

The person who values health, and who knows a little of fruit, will make it a point to eat it daily, and even, on occasions, to make a meal almost entirely of it. 'One cause why ripe and wholesome fruits are given a bad name is because they are eaten; at the wrong end of a meal.
